

BC Fallers concerns vs. WCB legislation

Hi all you BC fallers it's Don Walker from Wrenching on the Stump!!

I have a lot of things that I would like to share with you in this issue, but I have been getting too much feed back from fallers on modified chain saws.

Legislation has been controlling the industry and the fallers using those modified products.

I would like to know if anyone out there using modified chain saws has noticed a change in productivity or has been seriously hurt using those products?

My reason for asking these questions is that I have had fallers coming with their complaints and concerns that WCB is over riding their choice in the tools that they use to perform their duties.

I would like some feed back from you loggers out there and your saw of choice that you use to perform everyday duties. I would also like to hear your pros and cons about what you think about modified chain saws!!
